Mr. Hughes has changed the plans for his const-to-coast trip to spend Surday, August 6, at Niagara Falls. With Mrs. Hughes and party he will leave New York Saturday night, arriving at the Falls Sunday morning. He will be free to himself for the day. Next night he will speak in Detroit. Actual direction of the Republican campaign probably will be removed within a few days from this city to chicago, where three practical politicians will be in charge of all matters pertaining to the management of the battle.

Next night he will speak in Detroit. Governor Capper of Kansas has in vited Mr. Hughes to speak at Topeka, promising him "the largest gathering of the campaign" if he does.

Everett Colby, Progressive leader of New Jersey and member of the Republican campaign committee, who has a summer home at Southampton, wired Mr. Hughes this afternoon:

They believe the states most to be feared were Indiana, Kansas, Nebrasks, Ohio and Missouri. They pointed out to W. Murray Crane and others that, as the Middle West was to be the big battle ground of the SENATE IN SNARL campaign, Chicago would be the logical point from which to direct the fight.

In reply to Democratic charges that corporate influences were at work to stir up Republican criticism of President Wilson's Mexican policies, Chairman Willcox in a spirited statement said that while Mexico would be the leading issue of the campaign there was nothing sinister in the fact.

"Our interest in Mexican affairs is the result solely and exclusively of the maladministration of American relations with Mexico and the various Mexican factions." he said. "The weakness of the Wilson Administration in dealing with the situation is fully before the American people and is a vital like American people and is a vital size in this campaign. It is therefore not possible for the Democratic party to evade responsibility for conditions in Mexico by ascribing ulterior metives. The issue is plain and clearmetives. George B. Lockwood, an Indiana publisher, told Mr. Willeox yesterday that what remained of the Progressive party in various states was being held together by Democrats. Representative McKinley said the same condition existed in his state and that all real factional differences had been wiped out.

Beyond the fact that all big issues will be treated in the speech, notably the Mexican situation, no one except Mr. Hughes and his secretary, Lawrence H. Green, knows what it contains. The first besides these twe who will know will be William R. Willcox, Mr. Hughes's campaign manager, who will arrive here to-merrow morning.

It is the first speech of acceptance in years that has not been printed ten days before delivery. This secrety has been due to Mr. Hughes's desire to keep the Administration ignorant of its contents. One friend of Mr. Hughes declared that White House politics of the 1916 variety would not hesitaic at the eleventh hour to alter the conditions criticised if an advance of the speech reached Washington in time.

Mr. Hughes has chapted the plans Radical Leader Opposes Putting a National Ticket in Field.

Progressive Chieftain Expected to Take Active Part in Campaign.

While the Progressives in this state, and some others, have refused to indorse Charles E. The radical Bull Moose leaders on second

Bainbridge Colby in a statement issued last night is the latest leader of the radical element to advise against it. Mr. Colby announced that Matthew Hale, of Massachusetts, acting chairman of the Progressive National Committee, has sent out a call for a conference of Progressives to be held in Indianapolis on August 3, at which the question of calling a convention to complete the national ticket will be

A good many of Mr. Colby's friends expect to see him support President Wilson for reflection, as some other Progressive leaders may do. Michael A. Schaap, former Progressive leader in the New York Legislature, got on the Wilson band-wagon yesterday. He called on Chairman Vance McCormick, at Democratic National Headquarters, accompanied by Samuel Marks, Tammany leader of the 31st Assembly District, in which Schaap resides. Schaap was a Democrate before he became a was a Democrat before he became a Progressive. It is expected that he will take an active part in the Wilson election."

Mr. Colby denounced the situation in which the Progressives find themselves as "scandalous," but admits it presents obstacles to a third ticket which are insurmountable. His idea is to have the preliminary conference at Indianapolis issue a statement to the Progressives of the country, rehearsing all the tragic facts at Chicago, and then leave the action of individual Progressives to their own judgment and conscience. He suggested a rehabilitation of the party after the fall election.

"It should be remembered," Mr. Colby said, "that before the national committee adjourned, on June 26, after it had beaten the motion to leave action on the Presidency to the judgment and conscience of the individual Progressives, the steam-roller majormittee made a point of order that this marked in exception in Mexico by ascribing ulterior ditions in the city.

Recently Raphael Annsiato, head of the plant's box department, quit work without permission on account of the excessive heat. He was discharged. The employes maintained that Annsiato's dismissal was in reality caused by his activity in the formation of a union last April.

Michael J. Rogan and John J. Bealin, of the State Industrial Commissione, finally appealed to Commissioner Straus, after their efforts to bring about a settlement were unsuccessful. He ruled that the company should reinstate Annsiato in view of his record of twelve years' satisfactory service and the fact the building in which the employe worked was not adapted to his work in extremely hot weather.

Senator Fall was told he had been accused by Democrats of being biased on Mexican matters because of his large interests in that country.

"I have been engaged in business in Mexico for thirty-five years," he retorted. "I guess I ought to know the people and the country."

It was Senator Fall who introduced in Congress last March a resolution calling upon the President to seize every railroad and port in Mexico, make the Mexicans catch the bandits, force the holding of an election, and then clear the United States soldiers from the country. He observed yesterday that the resolution was "either sleeping profoundly in committee or in the waste basket."

APPEAL PROCEEDINGS

H. Snowden Marshall, United States District Attorney, obtained the preliminary papers yesterday entitling him to proceed directly to the United States Supreme Court with his appeal from Judge Learned Hand's order dismissing the writ of habeas corpus the prosecutor obtained when he was remanded to the custody of the sergeant-at-arms of the House of Representatives to answer to the House for contempt. The papers were signed by Judge Mayer, of the United States District Court.

In his petition Mr. Marshall says there are grave doubts concerning the legality under the Constitution of his restraint and detention under the order signed by Speaker Clark and of the validity of the contempt proceedings. He has until August 15 to formulate his appeal.
